

Security Management and Safeguards Office (CX)

The Security Management and Safeguards Office provides security and protection for Glenn personnel, including employees and authorized contractors, subcontractors, tenants, and visitors. The Office also provides security for missions, facilities, property, and information in the possession or control of NASA Glenn, consistent with all applicable laws, national level directives, and Agency requirements. Security and protection practices are based on threat and vulnerability surveys and assessments and implemented according to risk management principles. The Office is responsible for performance of the following services:

Oversight of information technology security; management of communications security; provision of a counterintelligence program to deter, prevent, and neutralize threats from foreign intelligence services and foreign and domestic terrorists; oversight of physical security measures in construction projects; management of security force operations; management of a photo-identification badge program; establishment and maintenance of appropriate relationships with Federal, state, and local law enforcement agencies and the national intelligence community; administration of a personnel security program; oversight of security education and awareness; establishment of programs for the protection of sensitive and classified information; investigation of security-related incidents; implementation of security measures to prevent crime; and enforcement of parking and traffic rules.

Security Management and Safeguards Office (CX) con't

